The Regional Automation Consortium's (TRAC) resource licensing agreement with Parkland Regional Library System (PRLS)

What is it?

TRAC and PRLS have agreed on a reciprocal lending agreement for use with OverDrive materials.

With a TRAC library card, you now have access to OverDrive ebooks and digital audiobooks from PRLS.

Why?

This agreement increases the number of titles that TRAC library card members have access to.

If the title you are looking for is currently checked out or not in the TRAC collection, you may now search for and borrow titles from the PRLS collection.

How?

The PRLS collection can be accessed three different ways:

- OverDrive Website
- OverDrive App (retiring February 23, 2022) IOS / Android
- Libby App IOS / Android

The PRLS collection must be searched separately from the TRAC collection. You can do this using the same TRAC OverDrive website and apps.

Number of titles? For how long?

Checkout limits apply only to the library being used. Titles borrowed from PRLS do not count against the checkout limit imposed by TRAC, and TRAC titles borrowed do not count against PRLS's checkout limit.

TRAC Checkout limit: 10 titles at a time

PRLS Checkout limit: 10 titles at a time

TRAC library users cannot place holds on PRLS titles and PRLS users cannot place holds on TRAC titles.

Restrictions?

Certain collections, including simultaneous use items like magazines, may not be lent outside of the home network due to agreements with publishers.

When recommending titles, please do so within your home library's OverDrive site.
